

Dr Ahmed Mandil

Coordinator, Research & Innovation, WHO Regional Office for the Eastern Mediterranean (EMRO), Cairo, Egypt

Dr Ahmed Mandil is Coordinator, Research & Innovation at the WHO Regional Office for the Eastern Mediterranean (EMRO), Cairo, Egypt and has been seconded from High Institute of Public Health, Alexandria University since 2014. He was Secretary, International Epidemiological Association (2002-2008); Dean, College of Health Sciences, University of Sharjah, UAE (2004-2006), and Professor of Community Medicine, King Saud University, KSA (2008-2014). He currently serves as Deputy Executive Editor, WHO Eastern Mediterranean Health Journal and supports WHO's work in the areas of research for health, bioethics, WHO Collaborating Centers, innovation, and digital health in the Region. He received his MBChB (1981) and masters in Pediatrics (1985) from Alexandria University, Egypt; Doctorate in Public Health from UCLA School of Public Health, USA (1991).